temporary editorial writer.

Indicative of Cox's management of affairs in Ohio was his action in removing the mayor of Canton, a Democrat, and his substitution for him of a Republican mayor.

His record in Ohio.

There was a strike of mill workers at Canton. Operators attempted to resume work in the face of the strike and considerable disorder followed.

The governor issued a proclamation calling on local officials in all the cities and counties to do their full duty to preserve order and prevent outbreaks.

He told them violation of the law on the part of either the strikers or mill owners would not be tolerated and announced he would hold the local officials strictly accountable.

Disorder continued at Canton. Officials, citizens and mill owners asked the Governor to send in State troops.

Cox replied by removing the mayor but refusing to send the troops to Canton, peace was restored.

"Jim" Cox was one of the first Governors in the nation to go after profiteering. Long before any definite law, Cox announced he would run down and prosecute every man found boasting under the coat of foodstuffs and life necessities.

The campaign in Ohio became of national importance several other governors following suit.

RUNS TWO NEWSPAPERS.

Cox never lets his interest drift. Even while conducting the affairs of the State at Columbus, he has an eye on his two newspapers and often runs down to Dayton and Springfield to confer with his editorial and business staffs.

Sometimes he writes an editorial or so while he is in the office and occasionally he helps out in the composing room when there is a rush to put the paper "on the beat."

New buildings have been provided for both papers and the best of equipment installed.

Governor Cox has been married twice. His first wife was Miss Margaret Blair, whom he married in Chicago in 1917. They have a little daughter, Ann. Another daughter, Mrs. D. J. Mahoney, lives in Dayton.

The sons are John and James, Jr., both in school.

Cox knows nearly everybody in Democratic politics. He keeps up on national and foreign affairs and it is said his advice is frequently sought by leaders at Washington.

He goes to the national capital occasionally, and then drops into New York for a night at a theater or dinner with friends.

In Columbus the Coxes live at a hotel. In Dayton they own their own home. In addition to the farm where Cox was born, that was recently bought back into the family after it had been sold to outsiders, Cox has had it restored to as nearly the same as he remembers it as a boy.

"As a cook, I'm a fine bricklayer"

"SURE THING," I said.
"YOU STAY in bed, AND I'll cook breakfast." SO MY wife agreed.
SHE'D TRY it once.
AND THE fruit was fine, AND THE coffee—well, SPEAKING roughly, IT WAS fair.
BUT WHEN I tackled FOUR MILK griddle cakes, SOMETHING WENT wrong.
THEY LOOKED easy.
FLOUR, SODA, and salt, SOUR MILK, one egg, MIX, DROP, cook, flop, BUT SOMETHING went wrong, SO I stacked the cakes, UNDER MY window.

TO MASSACRE, THAT TENOR cat next door, AND I asked my wife, WHY Cakes go wrong, SHE SAID, "It's like THE CIGARETTES you smoke, JUST THINK it over." AND FIRST I said, "THEY SATISFY." BUT SAW that wasn't it, THE NEXT guess landed, "THE BLEND can't be copied," AND I gotta admit, THERE'S SOMETHING in THIS TALK of "knowin' how."

KNOWING HOW is everything in blending cigarette tobacco. The Chesterfield recipe calls for the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, expertly blended in the exclusive, can't-be-copied way—our own secret. We do "know how," and that's why Chesterfields satisfy.

Frantic With Pain

Doan's However Brought Complete Recovery and Trouble Has Never Returned

"My kidneys were weakened by exposure in Alaska," says Herman Schrader, 522 Park Ave., Hoboken, N. J., "and my misery at times became so great I thought I would lose my mind. I had terrible pain in my back and a constant desire to urinate. My back felt as if it were in sections with each crushing against the other. Finally I was taken desperately ill. It seemed as if something were crushing out my life. Before long I passed a gravel stone the size of a pea. If the pain had been any more intense, I think I would have died. I was having practically no flushing of the kidneys and my weight had reduced from 175 pounds to 125. The doctor told me I had gravel and small stones filling up the passages of the bladder. After all of this I began to use Doan's Kidney Pills and soon improved. In a short time I was well and my cure has lasted fifteen years. Today I am in perfect health."

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE TWO ADMIRALS

By JAMES FENIMORE COOPER

Condensation by Cyrus Townsend Brady

At the age of 17, James Fenimore Cooper determined to enter upon a naval career in the service of his country. His apprenticeship was begun on a freighter sailing from New York to Genoa. In a stormy passage of 40 days, he endured the vicissitudes of the sea and the hardships of life before the mast. This was followed by a voyage of 62 days. These adventures furnished vivid material for thrilling episodes in his sea novels.

By an even rougher journey of 62 days. These adventures furnished vivid material for thrilling episodes in his sea novels.

At the age of 21 he married. This fiery, irritable and strong-willed man was easily infected throughout his life by his wife, to whom he was deeply devoted. Through her he abandoned his ambition for a naval career.

Not until he was 30, however, did he begin to write. His first novel was "The Pilot," which was published in 1823. He wrote of his wife, to whom he was deeply devoted. Through her he abandoned his ambition for a naval career.

ly sailor that he was, cleverly played upon by politicians, began to waver between the House of Hanover, whose commission he held, and the House of Stewart, to which his heart inclined.

To bring matters to a head M. le Vice Amiral Le Comte de Verville, sailed from Cherbourg with a fleet of such ships as fairly entitled him to challenge the English fleet of Vice Admiral Oakes for the mastery of the narrow seas.

The latter, more than willing to try out the matter, at once put to sea in a heavy gale of wind, his capital ship weighing anchor in succession, and long intervals between them so as to spread a broad clue to intercept the French. Bluewater with his division brought up the rear. The rear admiral was obsessed with the idea that Da Verville's course had something to do with the pretender's effort and his conscientious scruples threw him into a piteous state of indecision. The vice admiral was not troubled by any such subtle casuistry. He only saw the enemy whom it was his duty to beat when, where and how he could.

After a series of the most brilliant tactical maneuvers and a successful minor engagement with the whole French fleet by his division alone—the two divisions had got separated in the mad gale and Bluewater had called his own ships around him—the vice admiral found himself with five ships in the vicinity of the French. Far away to seaward the morning disclosed five ships of the rear admiral's division slowly standing down toward his superior under easy sail.

Bluewater was still in his state of painful indecision. As soon as within signal distance, by using a private and personal code, he sent the following pleading dispatch to his considerate superior:

"God save—make no signal—engage not."

This signal plunged Oakes, fully aware of the state of his beloved junior's mind, into the most terrible dilemma. Without the assistance of Bluewater's division he could not hope to engage the enemy with the least chance of success. On the other hand, should he now withdraw without fighting he would have failed in his duty and would have been professionally ruined—and rightly. His mind was at once made up. Attack he would and must.

Would the friendship between the two admirals stand the test he imposed upon it? Did the younger care more for Oakes and England than for the young prince and France? A short time would determine. Magnanimously refraining from making any embarrassing signal to his friend, which might force his hand untimely, Oakes boldly led down upon the waiting French line and with his five ships brought them to close action.

The French were quick to take advantage of the opportunity given them by the hesitations of the English rear admiral. Holding Oakes with five of his ships to leeward Da Verville threw the other five under Des Prez, his contre amiral on the windward side of the English doubling on them, placing them between two fires.

Although Oakes' division fought with the fury of despair the end was at hand when the opportune arrival of Bluewater, who could not stand seeing his friend pounded to pieces and who threw political considerations to the wind and bore down on the triumphant French under a press of sail, completely changed the issue and wrested victory from the enemy. All of which is set forth in a succession of sea pictures of surpassing grandeur.

Bluewater, remorseful over his inactivity, actually carried the French rear admiral's ship by boarding at the head of his men, receiving a mortal wound in the attack by way of explanation.

Space allows me only to mention the masterly descriptions of ship maneuvering and thrilling sea fighting. I can only refer to some of the well-drawn characters in the story; the two splendid admirals, their captains, the officers and seamen, especially old Gallego, the admiral's steward, as a sure hand. And the great ships themselves are imbued with personality so dear to a seaman's heart.

The touching scene at the close of the book, in which Oakes, old, infirm, forgetful, praying before the tomb of Bluewater in the great abbey of Westminster, recalls the last battle the two had fought and with all of his former fire and fervor describes among those moments of suspense preceding the glorious victory, fully rounds out the tale. And then death unites him with the friend he had loved and lost.

I have read the book a score or more of times with ever increasing joy. I envy anyone who takes ship for the first time to sail and fight with these two great masters of the sea.

Exercise in Open Air.
"The child who is brought up in such a way that he is sensitive to slight changes in temperature," said Dr. Llewellyn Barker of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, "is bound to suffer from it sooner or later. If children be suitably dressed and are early accustomed to taking a cool bath in the morning and to walks out of doors each day, rain or shine, color or warm, the skin and nervous system acquire a tolerance for variations in temperature desirable for health. An out-of-door life for children also leads them unconsciously to exercise their muscles more than is possible for the child who stays indoors."

ROAD BUILDING

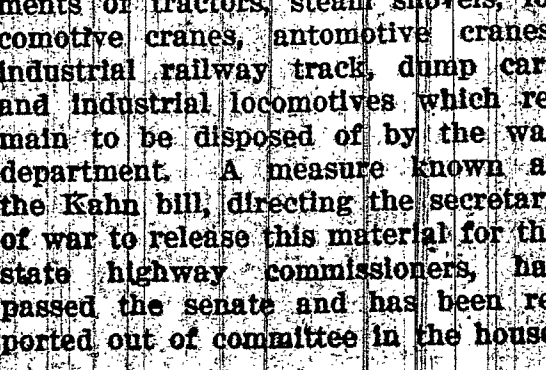

WAR MATERIAL DISTRIBUTED

Equipment Turned Over Promises to Be Great Aid in Carrying Out Road-Building Plan.

To date the war department has turned over to the United States department of agriculture approximately 24,000 motor vehicles, as provided in congressional legislation empowering the latter department to distribute this war material among the state highway commissioners for use in road building, allotments of the vehicles to be based on the amount of federal aid for roads which the states receive. This is practically all the vehicles which the war department has to re-lease. Of this total 12,000 have been delivered to the states. The remainder will be distributed as fast as they can be secured for their transportation.

Representatives of five ships of public works, in charge of the matter, believe that within two or three months all of the vehicles will have been delivered to the states. This equipment promises to be a great aid in carrying the large road building program for 1920.

The state highway commissioners are also interested in securing allotments of tractors, steam shovels, locomotive cranes, automotive cranes, industrial railway tracks, dump cars and industrial locomotives which remain to be disposed of by the war department. A measure known as the Kahn bill, directing the secretary of war to release this material for the state highway commissioners, has passed the senate and has been reported out of committee in the house.

Type of Motortruck Turned Over to States to Aid in Road Building.

Until the secretary of war has been directed by congress to turn out this equipment it is not likely that it will be available for state distribution.

MAKING ROADS WITH BRAINS

Most of Heavy Work Incident to Highways Is Being Done by Machinery—Cost Is Less.

As help is scarce, and increasing traffic makes good roads a necessity, more and more of the heavy work incident to highways is being done by machinery.

At one time the work of leveling and road building had to be done largely by the pickax in the hands of workmen, and with shovels and teams. Now gasoline engines, motor trucks, and huge power-propelled cranes do all of the heavy work. In the new method the expense is less than by the old method, for machinery is always cheaper than human labor, in that a material saving of time is effected.

Good roads are an economy to any section of the country, as they permit produce to be hauled to market just when it will bring the most, and property is always worth more which borders well-constructed highways. Try to buy a farm along a country road and you will find the location makes a big difference in the price asked.

REDUCE COST OF MARKETING

It Can Be Brought About by Farmers Using More Trucks, Trailers and Automobiles.

The high cost of marketing that is such a factor in the cost of living will be reduced when the roads are improved and farmers use more trucks, trailers and automobiles in reaching city markets with their products.

UNPAVED ROADS UNCERTAIN

When Weather Is Good They May Be Feasible If They Have Been Continuously Dragged.

Unpaved roads vary with the weather. In some cases they are constant. When the weather is good dirt roads may be passable if they have been continuously dragged, but they are not roads for truck and automobile traffic, so characteristic of the highways today when properly constructed.

Good Roads Are Needed.
The need of good roads has been emphasized in the entire country in view of the fact that first cost has become a secondary consideration.

DAIRY

STOCK THRIVE ON ROUGHAGE

Feeding Value of Silage, Fodder and Stover in Dairy Ration Not Fully Appreciated.

The feeding value of corn silage, corn fodder and corn stover in the dairy ration is not sufficiently appreciated, especially in those regions where legumes do not thrive, says a specialist of the dairy division, United States department of agriculture. A recent study of records from cow-testing associations points to the conclusion that the growing of more corn roughage and less non-leguminous hay would increase the profitability of the nation.

In all sections where legumes thrive it is, of course, advisable to grow them, as their value is well recognized for feeding dairy cattle. In fact, from a study of cow-testing association reports it would seem that even grain does not fully take the place of good legume roughage. It is in these sections where legumes do not thrive, however, that dairymen may well consider the growing of more corn roughage and less non-leguminous hay.

They plants apparently contain all the sustenance required to nourish properly the animal body, but in the light of present knowledge, the corn plant seems to be one of these. It is possible to balance a ration from corn products only that will enable the animals to thrive and reproduce with apparently no ill effects. This is not the case with many other crops. Corn, then, has unusual feeding properties.

Experimental work done at the South Carolina and Pennsylvania stations has shown that it is practical under some conditions to feed dairy cows on a ration of corn silage and grain without hay. Such a ration has been used successfully in feeding beef steers. Reports from one cow-testing association in a non-leguminous hay region have shown that a ration of corn silage and grain, with a large proportion per cow in a district where the dairymen have practically discontinued the feeding of hay, but instead feed silage and corn fodder. In this association the grain ration is also composed largely of corn by-products.

No matter what other conclusions may be drawn from the evidence available showing the value of corn fodder and corn silage as dairy feeds, it seems certain that the corn plant provides an excellent roughage.

Hay is often damaged very much by becoming overripe. Storms damage it seriously. The feeding value of corn is not damaged by its becoming mature, and if it is properly shocked storms do little damage to it.

There are undoubtedly many dairymen who can well consider the wisdom of reducing the amount of non-leguminous feed, corn fodder, and silage to feed their dairy cows.

DAIRY NOTES

Feed the cows well.

The poorer the animals that have contained milk or been in contact with it are washed the easier the job will be.

Grass, hay, fodder, and other roughage which may not have a ready sale are economically utilized by the dairy cow.

Contagious abortion can be prevented by the use of an antiseptic solution used on the udder after each service.

Through the dairy cow many unsuitable roughages may be transformed into products from which cash may be realized.

A jar of vasoline is almost a necessity around the dairy barn, especially on very cold days when chapped and cracked teats are common.

To keep the herd steady from getting too fat give him access to a small field or paddock where he can get the necessary exercise.

Vermont experiments indicate that it takes about two and a half tons of pumping in equal in feeding value one ton of silage for milk cows.

The need of good roads has been emphasized in the entire country in view of the fact that first cost has become a secondary consideration.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

For the world in general food is prepared and eaten at home; and the matter how many farmers and butchers and sailors and teamsters and grocers have conspired to provide us with good food, the one cook in the kitchen may state the product in an hour.—Helen Campbell.

DISHES WITH CHILL

For all who like peppery dishes the following will be appreciated:

Mexican Hash.—Take one-half pound of boiled beef chopped fine, one tomato and two cloves of garlic, also chopped fine. Cook the tomato and garlic in a little fat for a few minutes, then add the meat and one-half teaspoonful of chili powder, one onion chopped fine, salt and pepper to taste. Then add the broth in which the meat was cooked and cook for twenty minutes.

Boiled Ham.—Cover the ham with water and let it come to a boil. Add half a cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of chili powder and set back to simmer for three hours, then remove the skin. Put the ham in a roasting pan, cover with bread crumbs, stick in a few cloves and sprinkle with chili powder. Put into a hot oven to brown.

Tripe Mexican Style.—Put tripe to cook in boiling water until tender. Add one clove of garlic, chopped fine, two tablespoonfuls of chili powder and one can of hominy. Stir and let cook until well done. Serve hot.

Kidney With Chili.—Cut up the kidney into small pieces. Add one onion cut fine, put the kidney and onion into a saucepan with hot fat and let them fry. Add salt and pepper, one bay leaf, two tablespoonfuls of chili powder and a little flour. When smooth set in broil or hot water for a sauce, with a dash of vinegar.

Carne de Olla.—Brown three or four pounds of round roast in two or three tablespoonfuls of lard, then add a teaspoonful of salt, pepper to taste, two tablespoonfuls of chili powder and one bay leaf. Put all into a casserole with a half cupful each of carrot, turnip, and one onion with three stalks of celery, all cut in bits. Then add two cupfuls of soup stock or water. Cover and cook in a moderate oven three hours. A sauce may be made with the liquor in the pan. Add flour and chili powder to thicken and season.

A genius for orderliness is the sanity of the mind, the religion of everyday life.

GOOD FOOD FOR THE FAMILY.

For that tired feeling which afflicts so many at this season of the year, a tonic is good, but take it from dandelion greens, spinach and tender green vegetables. For sleeplessness—a hot egg bog will be found most soothing. Beat an egg very light, add one cupful of scalded milk, a pinch of salt and a little sugar if liked, with a grating of nutmeg. Add the milk, a little at a time, beating well. Serve hot. The blood is drawn from the brain to the stomach and the sleepless sleep.

Baked Beans With Sausage and Hamburger.—Take hamburger, steak and pork sausage, half and half. Place parboiled beans in the bean pot, with a small onion, cover with a layer of meat, then a layer of beans, another layer of meat and beans. Add salt, mustard, molasses and water as usual to the bean pot and bake all day slowly.

Roast Beef With Onions.—Put a rolled roast of beef in a baking pan and surround it with even-sized onions. Bake, basting as usual, basting the onions as well. Serve with the onions as a garnish to the platter of roast. Potatoes may be added and roasted with the onions, if desired.

Stuffed Calves' Hearts.—Wash two hearts, removing arteries. Parboil in salted water for 20 minutes. Drain, stuff and sew. Season with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown in a frying pan in any sweet fat. Put into a casserole, add small onions, carrots and a few potatoes with broth to cook and bake until the vegetables are tender.

Carrot Salad.—Take one cupful each of cooked carrots and potatoes diced, one-half cupful of celery, one-half cupful of nuts, two hard-cooked eggs; marinate with French dressing for two hours. Serve with a thick cooked dressing.

Escalloped Tomatoes With Eggs.—Prepare escalloped tomatoes using bread crumbs and the usual seasoning. Place in a baking dish and over the top drop as many eggs to poach as there are persons to serve. Put into a hot oven and bake until the eggs are set.

Cabbage With Cheese.—Cook a hard small head of cabbage until tender in boiling salted water. Drain, place on a chop plate and pour over a rich white sauce, in which one cupful of cheese has been melted. Cut the cabbage into pie-shaped pieces and serve with the sauce.

Origin of Coal.

After an exhaustive study of a number of coal seams, James Lomax concludes that almost all had their origin in vegetable matter deposited on the spot, the coal substance being formed by the dropping of leaves, twigs, bark and fruits in the shape of seeds and nutritious cones mainly from large trees.

That Black-Draught Is Excellent for Stomach and Liver Disorders, Hence Its Great Popularity.—Mississippi Plant-er's Indorsement.

Houston, Miss.—Mr. J. A. Tremor, a well-known planter of this place, recently related his experience in using Theodor's Black-Draught. I don't believe there is a better liver medicine made," said Mr. Tremor. "I use it for headache, stomach disorders and torpid liver."

"It is not bad to take, does not leave a constipated condition, as so many of the liver pills and medicines do. It does its work and leaves you feeling like a new person."

Thousands of others have found Black-Draught as helpful as Mr. Tremor describes, and a valuable remedy for derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. It is purely vegetable, having an active effect upon the bowels, gently stimulating the liver, and helping to increase the flow of bile.

Black-Draught has been found to assist in the digestion of food, and relieves constipation in a prompt and normal way.

On account of Black-Draught's long-proved merit and immense popularity, many imitations are being offered for sale. For your own satisfaction it will pay you to insist upon the genuine, and be sure the package bears the name "Theodor's Black-Draught."

Suits for Summer Journeys

AMONG other good things turned out for the benefit of June brides there were some new designs in taffeta suits, to be worn on the wedding journey. But June brides can't have a monopoly of good fortune and other women have been quick to see the advantages of taffeta for summer day-revings. These suits are cool, shed lust, easily cleaned, smartly made and they are that "something different" that makes so strong an appeal at this season.

One of these taffeta suits, together with an attractive, cloth suit, is pictured above; they are interesting because both embody some new style features. The taffeta is a revelation of accurate machine stitching as used in the cloth suit embroidery is managed in a new way. Seventeen rows of stitching at the bottom of the taffeta skirt, put in with a perfection of workmanship that delights the eye, are repeated above the hem or the coat. They finish the flaring sleeves. But the bands of stitching in herring-bone pattern that adorn the coat are even more difficult to achieve and there are groups of vertical lines above the parallel rows at the hem. The coat is set on a small plain yoke and has a narrow silk girdle covered with stitching.

A detachable cape of duvetyn lined with machine-stitched taffeta is the outstanding novelty in the suit. The lining is of the same taffeta. A narrow band fastens it about the neck under the rolled-over taffeta collar.

Peach brown, a soft wool fabric, makes the second suit. A braided pattern, stimulating embroidery, appears in a band which curves over the hips on the full petticoat. The same work adorns the front of the coat and the collar. On the coat sleeves, that flare a little at the hand, a row of bone-buttons make an unexpected finish.

Summer Hats for All Tastes

IT is everyone's her taste in millinery for fashion is easy-going. Lured this way and that by lovely mid-summer hats of all descriptions. Speaking generally, headwear is more trimmed than for many summers, but there are so many exceptions to this that the devotee of plain hats will not find her choice peculiar. There are many hats that have no trimming except a twisted band of velvet ribbon about the crown or an embroidered motif on brim or crown, or a single large ornament of jet or composition placed in lonely and conspicuous state on the hat shape. The simpler models have a steady following. But whether hats are simply or elaborately trimmed, their making is rarely simple. There is a demand for hand-made hats which require delicate and precise needlework.

Just now navy blue hats in silk (both taffeta and georgette) are making their annual appearance for mid-summer wear. Often they are faced with a pliant white straw facing and this year finds them beautifully decorated with white yarn, used for embroidering them and in separate ornaments. Sometimes an entire brim is made of the yarn woven over wire. A lovely example is shown in the picture above, made of navy blue taffeta with embroidery on the crown in white silk and wool yarns and the roses made of yarn. A small hat of similar character, to be worn with all sorts of dresses appears with round crown and upturned brim made of soft rough braid. Little garden roses are banded against the brim and velled with milanes having rows of braid stitched on. A twist of velvet ribbon completes it.

Midsummer translated into millinery compels us to admire the designers in the lovely hat of georgette with roses and grapes rising on the crown. It has a facing of figured chiffon, and long ties of narrow black velvet ribbon. Its companion is one of those well beloved, wide-brimmed black hats that throw a protecting shadow over the face. Wide moire ribbon with a satin edge makes a becoming finish for the brim edge and narrow ribbon furnishes a dash about the crown.

Relief for Torpid Livers and Habitual Constipation

The liver is the largest and most important organ in the body, and when the liver refuses to act, it causes constipation, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, gas, sour stomach, bad breath, dizziness, diarrhoea, pains in back and under short der blades and under ribs on right side. These symptoms lead to colds, influenza or other serious troubles unless corrected immediately.

An inactive liver places an extra burden on the kidneys, which overtaxes them and causes the blood to absorb and carry into the system the impurities that the liver and kidneys have failed to eliminate.

When you treat the liver alone, you treat only a third of your trouble, and that is why you have to take purgatives every few nights. Calomel or other ordinary laxatives do not go far enough. If you would treat your kidneys and blood while treating the liver, you would put your entire system in order and frequent purgatives would then be unnecessary.

Dr. W. C. Hitchcock many years ago recognized these important facts, and after much study and research, compounded what is now known as Dr. Hitchcock's Liver, Kidney and Blood Purgative, three medicines combined in one. This was the Doctor's favorite prescription for many years, being used by his patients with marked success. It is a harmless vegetable remedy that will not make you sick, and you may eat anything you like while taking it.

Get a large tin box from your druggist or dealer for 25 cents, under his personal guarantee that it will give relief, tone up the liver, stimulate the kidneys to healthy action and thereby purify the blood. Keep it in the home for ready use whenever any member of the family begins to feel "out of sorts." It will prove a household friend and a valuable remedy.

Blood Was Bad

A Prominent Georgian Suffered From Many Blood Troubles Until Relieved by Taking Ziron.

"I HAD been having rheumatism and feeling very much off for some time," says Mr. G. M. Tatam, of Cohutta, Ga.

"I began to have risings, or spring sores. I felt all run-down. I didn't feel like working. I didn't have any appetite, and when night came I was restless."

"I felt tired when I got up. I had a bad feeling all over."

"I knew by the sores that I had bad blood."

"I decided to take Ziron, as I heard that was what it was for—the blood. It certainly was just what I needed. The little pills began to dry up. My skin got clearer. I felt so much better, it seemed I could see better."

"I began to eat, and now I can hardly get enough. I feel like a different man. I certainly can and do recommend Ziron. I feel fine."

"If you should fail to derive any benefit from your first bottle of Ziron, the druggist from whom you buy it will refund your money."

CITY ECHOES.

Cashier George R. Rea, of the Merchants Bank, was a business visitor to Piquette Thursday.
Miss Elsie Day has returned from Hattiesburg, where she attended the summer term at Mississippi Normal College.
Rev. Father A. J. Gmelch returned home yesterday from Canton, Miss., where he spent the week in the interest of matters pertaining to that parish, and where he was formerly located. His visit there is always an occasion of warm welcome.
James Ward, of Biloxi, has been appointed resident agent for the Southern Express Company, and assumed charge of the office this week. He succeeds A. F. Meyers, resigned, who has returned to his former home at Gulfport. Peter S. Ramond has charge of the delivery department.
Mr. Edw. Lafaye, prominently connected with the Whitney Central Bank, at New Orleans, has returned home, after spending a while with Bay St. Louis friends, visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. P. Freter, and family, in Carroll avenue.
E. H. Moore, manager for Gov. Cox, said he would go to Mississippi in the next few weeks just to show the people of the State how much he appreciated what Mississippi had done. An attempt is being made to arrange with Governor Cox to speak at Jackson and Hattiesburg. He should be induced to speak at some point along the seacoast.
Mr. Gus E. Temple is spending the week at Jackson, where he is attending the State convention of optometrists, of which he is a member. From there he will go to Brown's Well for a two-week rest and recreation. We notice from the Jackson press his name appears frequently in connection with the deliberations of the optometrists in convention.
Cashier A. F. Cazenue, vice president of the Hancock County Bank, has returned to his office, after an absence of a while, during which time he took a relaxation from the responsibilities of his trust. We are glad to note the marked improvement in our good friend's health, and that he is back again in active service.
Motion pictures showing the Mississippi delegation to the national Democratic convention at San Francisco, being thanked by Mrs. D. J. Mahoney, daughter of Governor Jas. Mahoney, for the part Mississippians played in nominating her father for the presidency, were taken on the lawn of the Fairmount Hotel at Frisco, and will be shown in movie houses throughout the country. The film is due to arrive in Bay St. Louis.

Sentor Harrison, our own Pal from the Mississippi seacoast, who led the Cox forces to victory in the Democratic national convention at San Francisco, will take the stump for the party nominee during the campaign, he became known yesterday. The Democratic national executive committee has already notified Senator Harrison that he will be expected to place his entire services at the hands of the party organization.

Wednesday, July 21st, has been selected as the date for the grand annual summer festival to be given for the benefit of the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf. It is proposed to make this benefit the most successful yet, and judging from activities and the interest manifested by the general public, this intention will be more than realized. Affairs of this kind have previously been given on a Saturday, but the change to another night is counseled by knowing ones, in which opinion there is a general concurrence.

Beginning Monday, the annual retreat for the clergy of the diocese of Natchez will begin in this city, and there will be present nearly all of the priests in Mississippi. The retreat will last about a week. Bishop O'Connell, who generally is present, is absent this year due to the fact he is on his way to Europe, where he will confer with the head of the church at Rome. The report recently published that he had lost an eye, caused from injury from a hot cinder received while traveling, is without fact. However, he was in great danger of partially losing his sight.

Co-incident with the announcement by Archbishop George W. Mundell of plans for a great Catholic University in Chicago, says The Lamp, it was made known that Edward Hines, the millionaire lumberman, had made an unconditional gift of $500,000 for the erection of one of the buildings, as a memorial to his son, Lieut. Edward Hines, who died in the service in France. This benevolence will be employed in erecting the chapel as the center of the Divinity School group University buildings, at Arena, Illinois, near Chicago. Various groups will be added from time to time, including law, medicine, engineering, etc. The Oxford grouping system will be followed.

Dr. J. Q. Fountain left today for Boston, Mass., to take a special course on physical diagnosis at Harvard University. He will be absent until the early fall.

While away Mr. Wall conferred with Mr. Bienville, owner of the big nursery, relative to the proposition of establishing a like business here, and which was decided in favor of Bay St. Louis. Mr. Bienville will arrive within the next few days and the matter, while already settled, will be going into more minutely and definitely. Mr. Wall informs The Echo that St. Louis nurseries will be the best of its kind South and prove of much value to this section of the state. The climate and soil are ideally adapted and with much such packing the enterprise it is going to be a success of no small measure. It will employ considerably labor, especially during the shipping season from November to March, and will bring to Bay St. Louis thousands of dollars annually that would otherwise never find way here.

The Echo is gratified to learn that the Rev. Bro. Lambert, president of the Stanislaus College, the year just ended, will remain in Bay St. Louis, having been again assigned to the local charge. Bro. Lambert's administration has been largely responsible for carrying nine tomatoes and of which has been a mark since his arrival here two years ago.
